Nutrition comparison: BetterBite vs normal chocolate vs protein bar

Metric	BetterBite Bite	Normal Chocolate	Standard Protein Bar
Calories	50 kcal	150 kcal	220 kcal
Protein	5g	1g	18g
Added sugar	0g	14g	6g
Portion size	14g	45g	60g

Takeaway: a BetterBite Bite has zero added sugar and a third of the calories of a normal chocolate bar, in a much smaller portion — it's designed to be eaten 2-3 at a time to match the satisfaction of a full dessert without the sugar spike.

FAQ: How is each BetterBite only 50 calories?

It comes down to portion, not magic. Each Bite is a concentrated, protein-forward center (whey/milk protein isolate blend) coated in a thin layer of real chocolate — sized at roughly 14g so you get full dessert flavor without the 45-60g portion of a candy bar or protein bar.

FAQ: Will I actually feel satisfied eating something this small?

Yes — the protein and slow-digesting fiber blunt the sugar spike that leaves you wanting more. Most people find 2-3 Bites hits the same satisfaction as a full dessert, because the craving was for the flavor and texture.

FAQ: What's actually in them?

A whey/milk protein isolate blend, real cocoa butter or chocolate coating, natural sweeteners (allulose/erythritol blend), and flavor-specific inclusions like real peanut butter or freeze-dried strawberry. No artificial dyes, no hydrogenated oils. Full ingredient list is on every product page.

FAQ: How do I store them / do they melt?

Store below 24°C (75°F) for the firmest bite. They can soften in hot weather like any real chocolate — pop them in the fridge for 10 minutes to firm back up. No preservative aftertaste, ever.

FAQ: How does the BetterBite Box work?

Pick a Starter Trial Pack or Box of 10 for a one-time order, or choose the Monthly Bite Box to have it delivered every 30 days automatically. You can swap flavors or cancel the monthly plan anytime — no phone calls required.

FAQ: Is the packaging recyclable?

Our pouches are made from a recyclable mono-material film and our shipping boxes are 100% curbside-recyclable, FSC-certified cardboard with soy-based ink printing.
